

PART I. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

- 1: History and development of the concept of autism
- 2: Awareness of autism in adulthood
- 3: Development of behaviour and functioning (with hindsight)
- 4: Autism as a lived experience

PART II. THE CLINICAL ASSESSMENT AND DIAGNOSTIC PATHWAY

- 5: Obtaining an assessment
- 6: Initial assessment ('Triage')
- 7: Full assessment: the developmental history
- 8: Full assessment: interviewing the patient and autistic phenomenology
- 9: Full assessment: direct observation and the signs of autism
- 10: Comorbidity assessment
- 11: Detailed needs assessment

PART III. CARE AND INTERVENTION AFTER DIAGNOSIS

- 12: Approaches to treatment and care
- 13: Social Care, the personal passport and reasonable adjustments
- 14: Caring communities and caring societies
- 15: Choices in life and the awareness, knowledge and skills to support them

References

Appendices

- 1: Epidemiology Methods
- 2: The author's experiences in epidemiology and in policy development
- 3: Development of a new approach to interviewing adults about their experiences of autism based on the Schedules for Clinical Assessment in Neuropsychiatry (Chapter 8)
- 4: Independent evaluation of the ADOS in community populations

Index